The Mirror without a Face: The Assessment of Parental

Parental alienation syndrome is a term coined by child psychiatrist Richard Gardner, and introduced in his 1985 paper, to describe a suite of distinctive behaviors he argued were shown by children who have been psychologically manipulated into showing unwarranted fear, disrespect or hostility towards a parent and/or other family members - typically, by the other parent and during child custody disputes. Parental alienation syndrome is not recognized as a disorder by the medical or legal community
